

Application Package for Caring for Our Community

A two-day program to enhance the role, knowledge and practice of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Health Workers in cancer care, prevention, screening and early detection, and end of life care

TOWNSVILLE

21 and 22 November, 2017

Cancer Council Queensland (CCQ) supports the ongoing professional development of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health professionals working with people affected by cancer. The two-day program will support Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Health Workers in providing cancer care, prevention, screening and early detection, and end of life care. When returning to the workplace, it is expected that health professionals will use their learning experiences to contribute to improved cancer outcomes across Queensland.

Participants need to register for the program and bursary funding is available for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people working as health professionals to learn about cancer care, end of life, cancer screening and prevention. Please complete the Bursary section of this application package if you would like to apply for financial assistance.

Bursary Application

Please skip this section if you are not applying for a bursary.

The Cancer Council Queensland Bursary is for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people living and working as health professionals in Queensland.

Cancer Council Queensland will provide a one-off bursary valued up to $700 AUD (including GST) to successful applicants. Participants who are successful in obtaining the bursary are encouraged to reduce costs wherever possible by carpooling with other participants, or staying with friends or family or at Cancer Council Queensland lodges if available. The bursary is a contribution to the cost of attending the course and may not cover all expenses to attend. The bursary will be paid via Electronic Funds Transfer.

We understand that costs may change slightly between when you apply for the bursary and when you make bookings. The final amount of the bursary will be determined based on the needs outlined in your application as well as a discussion between Cancer Council Queensland and the participant. Please outline the estimated costs for reimbursement based on the costs at the time of completing this application. Participants are advised to keep their receipts and to provide them to Cancer Council Queensland if requested to do so. If participants are unable to attend the course, or if costs to attend change, applicants will be asked to repay funds to Cancer Council Queensland (in full or the difference in amount).
